Defendants also submitted to the Court for an in camera review Defendants' Second Privilege Log, which include the following:

1. E-mail dated February 25, 2009, from Debbie Brown to David Rosales regarding five page exception letter with corrections made by Attorney Rosales.
2. E-mail from Debbie Brown to David Rosales dated March 2, 2009, regarding draft letter to insured of same date containing five pages.

Upon a review and consideration of both of Defendants' Privilege Logs, the Court concludes that the documents referred to in them contain communications which were made for the purpose of providing legal advice or prepared in anticipation of litigation and are therefore protected pursuant to the attorney/client or work product privileges. Therefore, the Court concludes that Plaintiff's First Motion to Compel (docket no. 22) is not well-taken and should be denied.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that Plaintiff's First Motion to Compel [docket no. 22] is hereby denied.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Clerk of the Court is instructed to place Defendants' Privilege Log and Defendants' Second Privilege Log in a sealed envelope and file the same of record in the above-captioned cause. Access to these documents shall be withheld without the express and written order of this Court. These logs are being placed in this sealed envelope for the purpose of preserving them for any reviewing tribunal.
